CHARGE FILED AGAINST HAYS NEGLECT DUTY

Justice of Peace Named in Suit By Sheriff Barnett

TRIAL NEXT MONDAY

Resignation Filed But Later Withdrawn By Hays

Frank W. Hays, Justice of the Peace in Precinct No. 4, will be tried in County Court next Monday on charges filed Thursday by Sheriff R. N. Barnett, in which Hays is charged with failure to issue a search warrant demanded by Sheriff Barnett.

The case to be tried grows out of an attempt to search a house in South Amarillo, said to be the property or in possession of Clarence Willmering. Sheriff Barnett, Deputy Glen Costley and Deputy W. L. Lyons went to Hays, so it is alleged, and asked for the issuance of a search warrant for this property. The papers had been prepared in advance and the Justice of the Peace was asked to sign the documents. This he is alleged to have refused to do.

Sheriff Barnett went to the court house in Amarillo and brought District Judge Henry S. Bishop over into Randall County where he could sign the search warrant.

While Judge Bishop was signing the the papers, a car was driven at fast speed down the street past the Judge and Sheriff Barnett. This proved to be Willmering. He was brought to Canyon and charged in the county court with fast driving. He plead guilty and paid a fine.

Hays was taken into Amarillo by Sheriff Barnett before Edward W. Thomerson who was acting District Attorney in the absence of Grady Hazlewood. Charges were prepared against him for failure to do his official duty. He signed his resignation as Justice of the Peace, which was filed with County Clerk Berl E. Mayfield on Thursday. On Friday Hays came to Canyon and filed a withdrawal of his resignation.

The resignation and withdrawal were placed before the Commissioners Court Monday, but no action was taken. The Court was undecided as to whether or not it had the authority to act on a resignation, after a request was made for its withdrawal. It is believed that the District Judge is the only authority before whom ouster proceedings may be instituted, and it is believed that this case is almost the same as ouster proceedings.

Hays is out on bond of $500 and will appear in County Court next Monday to be tried on the charge of Sheriff Barnett of willfully refusing to issue the search warrant.

So far as known, this is the first instance in Randall county in which such proceedings have ever been issued against an official.

Santa Fe Makes Changes in Pump Station in City

Electrifying the pumping station at the depot will reduce the Santa Fe force in Canyon by one man. The work is now in progress. The water tank is being moved nearer to the depot so that time may be saved in filling the big engines which operate on this division. The west pump will remain connected with the boilers, but will not be used. The east well will be equipped with an electric pump, which will be operated by Agent R. McGee from the depot.

A considerable string of 12-inch pipe will be taken up as a result of the change, the price of this pipe being figured to pay the cost of the changes to be made.

Four others in the crowd were injured by the bullets. Robert H. Gore of Chicago was arrested, charged with the shooting.

No Word Received As Highway Bond Interest Is Due

Interest will be due on some of Randall county's highway bonds within a few days. The Commissioners Court made no provision for taking care of this interest in the budget and tax rate for the year owing to the fact that the state agreed last September to assume these bonds. Bond holders are anxious to know whether or not they will receive their money on time.

The commission set up by the special law of last year has not told the commissioners what to expect. All of the information required was placed in the hands of the commission several months ago.

Several Panhandle counties have received notice that the state would take over their highway bond issues.

Letters were directed Monday to Austin asking the commission to give Randall county information as to the standing of the bond issues, and as to when the state will assume payment.

Trained Dog Gives Exhibition to Children of the Schools

All juvenile Canyon and a good share of the grownups attended a dog show during the past two days. Rin Lo, a Russian Shepherd, born in Russia, but brought to America when he was a puppy of six months, was exhibited by his master, Mr. Browning.

Rin Lo, according to Browning, has never been abused, has never been whipped and knows no sense of fear. He has been taught words, and according to his trainer, understands 1800 of them. He nods to the gentlemen, bows to the ladies, says his prayers, poses like Greta Garbo, plays with a ball, limps first on a front foot and then upon a rear, and does many other difficult feats.

He refuses food from anyone but his master, and when he is not being told what to do he pays no attention to others than "the one man" to whom he gives his entire confidence.

Several hundred school children of Canyon who saw Rin Lo were surprised to learn that patience and petting were the only instruments used in training so valuable a dog. Rin Lo has appeared in several movies, and according to Mr. Browning, will be seen on the screen in this city in the near future.

DISTRICT ONE HIGH SCHOOL GAMES HERE

Four High School Teams Here For Tournament Friday, Saturday

WINNER TO LUBBOCK

Students And Citizens Of Canyon Urged To View Half Dozen Tilts

W. T. will be host next Friday and Saturday, February 17 and 18, to the four leading high school basketball teams of the Panhandle territory. These teams, representing the four sections of this district of the Texas Interscholastic League, will meet at the W. T. gymnasium to compete in a tournament to decide the championship of the district.

The winning team will play the winner in the Lubbock district for the right to go to the state meet.

Section One will be represented by Quitaque; Section Two by Amarillo; Section Three by either Borger or Perryton; and Section Four by Pampa. As we go to press the contest between Borger and Perryton in Section Three has not been decided.

The games will be played off in a double elimination contest. Unlike the old method, which eliminated a team after one defeat, the double elimination method will put a team out of the running only after it has sustained two defeats. This method of giving a defeated team another chance in the tournament is made possible because of the reduced number competing in the district meet.

The games Friday will start at 10:00 a. m., according to W. E. Lockhart, director general of this district. Officials for the games will be selected from the more experienced members of the Buffalo Basketball squad. Coach S. D. Burton will direct the meet and will be assisted by Coaches Jones and Crump.

Students and the public are urged to support these games by attending. According to Coach Burton, there is danger of this tournament being held elsewhere hereafter unless sufficient interest is shown to justify the expense connected with the two day event. The high school teams which appear on the Gym floor are first rate teams and arrive here as the survivors of a strenuous elimination process. An extremely fine brand of basketball is promised.

Season tickets will be on sale the latter part of this week. Special rates, not yet announced, will be available for students.

Farm Crop Loans to be Made Soon

Farmers Urged to Get Information Ready For Loans

Farmers who wish to secure government loans on their crops for 1933 are urged to secure information during the coming week in order that they may properly fill out the blanks on which application for loans are made.

County Agent W. H. Upchurch states that he will be in his office on Saturdays, Mondays and Tuesdays for the purpose of giving the farmers an outline of the information desired by the government in making the loans. If the farmers will secure this information in advance, it will be much easier to fill out the blanks when they are received. Farmers are asked to see either Mr. Upchurch, the Chamber of Commerce secretary, T. C. Thompson or either of the banks for advice about the loans which they will desire.

It is expected that the government blanks will be available early next week. It is necessary for the farmers to compile a great deal of information in order to fill out the blanks quickly when they are received. The same committee, composed of W. C. Black, T. C. Thompson and R. O. Allison, who assisted last year, will approve the loans again this year. When the blanks are received, three or four places will be established at which the farmers may call for the purpose of filling out the information blanks.

County Agent W. H. Upchurch will have a letter of explanation in next week's issue of the News covering many of the details regarding the loans. He suggests that farmers who wish loans on oats and barley make application just as soon as the forms are received.

Glass Jars Fruit and Vegetables Are Frozen in Cellars

For the first time in 12 years, glass jars of fruit and vegetables were burst in the cellar during the cold weather of last week, stated W. H. Neal. At no other time has anything in this cellar frozen, states Mr. Neal. He belives that the continued cold with 8 degrees below zero for three days last week was the cause for this freezing. At other times the temperature has not stayed down for long enough periods to freeze in the cellar.

Other farmers have reported the loss of canned goods as the result of freezing of last week.

$165 Fines Last Night

Eight complaints were filed against G. N. Larzelere last night by the Sheriff's Department and the State Highway Department for various violations of the state motor laws. Larzelere was operating a travel bureau and hauling passengers for hire without complying with the state laws on this subject. He plead guilty and paid fines amounting to $165.00.

Eleven cars were captured between Amarillo and Canyon by the local and state officers, and brought to Canyon. Seven drivers in all were arrested, some of the cars being chained together and hauled over the highways.

This is the largest haul of cars charged with highway violations ever made at one time in this section of the state. The Sheriff's department discovered the fleet of cars entering the county at Amarillo and called upon the highway patrol for assistance in making the arrests and handling the cases.

HOUSE BILL TO REDUCE W. T. IN RANK

Would Make Junior College of W. T. Is Aim

AFFECT COLLEGES

Sweeping Changes Proposed With One Governing Board

Special to The News:

Austin, Feb. 12.—A college reorganization bill, blending, and in case of the University of Texas, exceeding the joint legislative organization committee and board of education recommendations, was prepared for introduction in the house Monday by Representatives Penrose B. Metcalfe, Sarah T. Hughes and R. B. Anderson.

It would fake junior colleges of ten present four-year institutions, and, in its major departure from the two survey reports, shift the first two years university work to these colleges.

It would retain the Denton teacher college as a normal, and the College of Industrial Arts as a four-year women's college under the name of Texas College for Women, but would place them under the same management.

It would reduce Texas Tech to a four-year college in agriculture and liberal arts. It would retain A. & M. college as a four-year agricultural and mechanical arts college. It would shift liberal arts, many of the scientific courses, and all graduate work to the university.

The institutions to be made two-year junior colleges would be Canyon, Commerce, Alpine, San Marcos, Huntsville, Nacogdoches teacher colleges; the School of Mines at El Paso, the College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville, and the agricultural colleges at Arlington and Stephenville. It would keep the negro normal at Prairie View.

The bill offsets one by Senator W. R. Poage of Waco that would abolish five of the teacher colleges, which does not include Canyon, and the two junior agricultural units.

It would make the university a senior and graduate institution, thus diverging from the committee and board recommendations. Another change it proposes is instead of putting all the colleges under the board of education or a board of higher education, it would create a governing board of regents, one from the teachers colleges and one from each independent institution, and three to be named by the governor.

"We estimate it would save the state $3,000,000 a year, and not impair education," authors of the bill said.

PANHANDLE PRESS ASSOCIATION MEMBER 1932

THE COLLEGE SITUATION

The people of Canyon are more interested in the college situation than in anything else pending before the legislature.

Two bills have been introduced which affect the colleges. The first was introduced in the Senate Friday which would abolish seven colleges. W. T. was not in the list affected by this bill.

A bill which seeks to reduce to the rank of junior colleges eight institutions including Canyon, was introduced Monday in the House.

Neither of the bills is sponsored by members of the Economy and Efficiency committee.

At the present time the House Appropriations Committee is working on the money bills for the support of the colleges during the coming two years. It is certain that attempts will be made in this committee to reduce the support so that the colleges will of necessity be reduced in rank.

The people of Canyon are wondering what the outcome will be, and what they may do about the situation.

There is one that must be done, and done at once: Join the Chamber of Commerce, and put up some money to carry on the fight against these bills. The Chamber of Commerce has been carrying on an extensive campaign on a very limited budget, but it is very evident that more money must be raised and raised now. The Chamber of Commerce has sent Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell to Austin to represent this city. He is one of the most prominent citizens of West Texas, and one of the staunch friends of Canyon and W. T. Judge Hamlin is giving his time to Canyon and W. T., but his actual expenses are being paid. It may be necessary to send other men to Austin during this fight, and their expenses must be met. The College has friends all over the Plains who will gladly donate their time for such purposes, but it is not right to ask them to pay their own expenses if they go to Austin to fight for Canyon and W. T. Each and every business man, professional man, and property owner in Canyon should join the Chamber of Commerce now, and make a contribution to this fight.

In the second place, write to any senator or representative whom you may know, outside those from this section of the state. Those from Northwest Texas are our friends, and have received hundreds of letters, telegrams and resolutions. Future work should be directed to members of the legislature who live in other sections of the state.

The impression seems to have been circulated that the fight was over so far as W. T. is concerned. This is not the truth. There is plenty of work yet ahead, and each and every citizen of Canyon and Randall county should get behind the Chamber of Commerce and give his wholehearted assistance.

Depressions bring about serious conditions in banking, as is witnessed by the hundreds of bank failures over the country. If a bank is strict in loans, the public criticises it as being a tightwad. But the wise banker would rather be classed as a tightwad and keep his bank open, than be classed as a good fellow, and see his bank closed as a result of making lax loans. The money in the banks belongs to the people, and not to the bankers. It must be protected at all costs, and the wise banker does his part, even to the extent of being classed as a tightwad. But conditions existing today makes it impossible to know which loans are good, and which are bad. Therefore, individuals, as well as banks, are unable to determine when it is the proper time to make loans. There are millions of idle dollars in America today, simply because the people cannot determine when to take loans. But do not blame the bankers. They are simply doing their part in protecting the money of their customers. Any sane individual would rather do business with a hard boiled banker, knowing that his money would be safe, than to do business with an easy banker, fearing that the bank would not be kept in sound condition.

The fight which has started in the Texas Senate on Ferguson appointees will likely be carried through this session of the legislature, with the result that the state government will greatly suffer. Partisan politics always works against the will of the people. It would be much better for the state if both those favoring Ferguson and those opposing him would lay aside prejudices and try to work out a program for the welfare of Texas, which is suffering under adverse conditions which are not the result of one man or one set of men.

The plot to kidnap the second Lindbergh child will be dealt with swiftly. The punishment cannot be too severe. The Lindberghs have been called upon to suffer too much, in the murder of their first child, and the public is so thoroughly aroused against kidnappers that they may not expect the sympathy which is extended to too many criminals. Law enforcement in America has been greatly handicapped by maudlin spirit in favor of criminals once they are apprehended.

A determined effort is being made in the legislature to repeal the gasoline refund which would greatly injure West Texas farmers. If the farmers must pay 4 cents per gallon state tax on the gasoline they burn in their trucks and tractors used exclusively for farm work, it will virtually prohibit the use of power machinery on the farms of West Texas. Farmers should protest most vigorously the repeal of the gasoline refund.

Seth B. Holman has moved from Amarillo back to Hereford to assume the management of the Hereford Brand. He sold the Brand several years ago to take a position as farm editor on the Amarillo News. He has taken back the Brand and now assumes active management.

The hitching posts have reappeared in many West Texas towns. Farmers have decided they can raise feed, which sells at low prices, more economically than they can pay cash for car license and buy high priced gas and oil for the cars.

Pipkin-Jones

At Hereford Wednesday at the home of the bride, R. S. Pipkin and Miss Helen Jones were married. Rev. M. E. Hawkins and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Pipkin accompanied the bridegroom there. The wedding took place at the home of the bride, Rev. Hawkins being the minister. St. Louis is the objective point of the honeymoon for which place the Wednesday evening train was taken. On its arrival here, an attempt was made by friends, gathered at the depot, to shower the newly wedded with rice but this the conductor prevented, not permitting the well-wishers to board the train, consequently the rice was thrown at the closed window where the couple were seen serenely viewing their discomfiture.

R. S. Pipkin, or "Bob" Pipkin as he is called by his friends, is a junior member of the Canyon Mercantile and Hardware Co., and his bride, nee Miss Helen Jones, was the milliner of said firm. Both are experienced and skillful as to the needs of the house along the dry goods line and the best place and how to supply these needs and while at St. Louis they will lay in the spring stock.

The News joins the host of friends who wish for Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Pipkin a fruitful, pleasant journey along the stream of time.

Fabric Hats Are Topping in New Styles

CROWNS, SOME HIGH AND DIGNIFIED-LOOKING, OTHERS MEDIUM THAT TAKE A VEIL NICELY, FEATURE NEW VOGUE

BY HARRIET

THE little hat of fabric has simply crashed into popularity.

It is made of a tremendous variety of materials. You can have a trig little faille hat, one of crinkled crepe, one of stitched grosgrain, used in conjunction with straw, a gleaming satin hat, a demure party hat of point d'esprit or organdie.

Some use printed fabrics, striped or plaid ribbon, polka dotted silk. Others, the big majority, stick to one color and are more apt to match up with a dress than a coat.

These little hats are not so tip-tilted as they were in the winter. But they all lean onto the forehead, even the high-crowned Russian hats.

The crowns are the fashion feature of the moment. Some come high-hat, and have the ability to look either very dignified or very provoking. Others are wearable, medium-crowned little trifles that take to veils like a duck to water. Many have little bows of self-material, others use feather fancies, silver or gold ornaments or even a little fancy made of the tiniest kind of velvet flowers, all making a circle, or a tiny formal nosegay or a little narrow band across the crown.

These little new hats are a marvelous pick-me-up for late winter They come in dark hues that go nicely with your winter coats and dresses. They have a touch of spring in them and yet are restrained in their lightness so that they are becoming and wearable right now. And they will look equally nice a little later on with your spring suit or dresses.

• • •

ONE of the new ones features the newest brim, a one-sided rolled one, that emphasizes the narrow silhouette of the hat. It is of straw braid crown, bows and facing and stitched faille for the lower part of the crown and brim. It is a heavenly blue, the dark medium blue that will be so good later on.

It is an excellent hat for a blue tailored dress costume and your winter coat. Looking handsome with the coat, it looks even more chic when you shed your coat and sit at lunch or work in your blue dress.

Quite different in type and feeling is a little beret that shows spring berets will be in the popular class of merchandise. It departs from the winter berets, however, in being more formal headgear than berets have been.

It is brown, made of imported crepe ribbon, arranged asymmetrically, and is intricately draped to bring out the design and the texture of the ribbon. It is as becoming as the tricorn, which is probably the best shape any little hat can have for the average woman. This brown ribbon hat is particularly good right now, both with your fur coat and your print frocks.

If you're weary of brimmed hats and not the type to wear berets successfully try one of the smart cap-like "fez" models or a "pill-box." Both are new, smart and neither is as difficult to wear as the names suggest. The "fez," shown in a wide variety of materials, mounts brimless from the brow, after the manner of the Turkish headpiece from which it takes its name. However, the top is crushed softly, usually with a tilt toward one side. Some of the fez hats dip to a point in the center front. There is no trimming except a bow or novelty clip.

The "pill-box" in its most extreme form is just what the name suggests—a tiny flat-crowned hat to be worn at the angle of a bellboy's cap. Such a hat looks coquettish above a young and piquant face. There are more conservative versions of the "pill-box" which are nothing more than the perennially popular turban. They come in stitched silk, in rough woolens, in jerseys and in belting ribbon.

Later in the spring cotton and linen hats are expected to give straws a close race for first place in the fashion line-up. These will not be limited to sport wear. Gray linen hats with gray accessories are being shown to accompany navy street suits and striped cotton hats with matching striped cotton scarves brighten a gray or brown street ensemble effectively.

Already the white hat is making its appearance and most of these are of fabric. A small hat of white novelty fabric tilted down over the eyes, worn with a blue and white printed silk suit, white gloves and blue shoes has a freshness that will rescue any wardrobe from the late winter doldrums.

Smeeman Is Free Man Again

For smiling like that, Glen Smeeman, right, of Cleveland, O., doesn't have to be pardoned—because that's just why he's smiling. He is showing his wife the pardon granted him by Gov. Guy Park of Missouri after he had been returned to that state to face a 17-year-old auto theft charge. Smeeman years ago changed his name and became a successful business man.

Prize Spaniel

With her wig-like ears, "Belle" looks just like a British judge—and just as dignified. And why not? She has been selected the winner of the Futurity Class at the American Spaniel Club show held in New York City.

GOOD MEDICINE

Mayor-eleet Carson of Portland, Oregon, has prescribed some good medicine for public consumption. He said: "We must quit asking the government to be a wet nurse to everything.

"We must realize that the people support the government, not that the government supports the people.

"We cannot get out of debt by going farther into debt.

"We must cut the cost of government, for in that way lies the only avenue of relief at present.

"I am not an alarmist, but we must admit that none of us knows whether or not we have hit the bottom in this deflation of credits that is now going on.

"We must maintain the stability of the economic order. Must preserve our institutions; if we do not, it will mean that we are breaking the last timber that holds the roof of protection over our heads.

"The protection of life, property and health are the fundamental duties of our government. All else is superfluous. We must hold to these fundamentals and turn our back upon these other intriguing things, if we are to hold what we have and build solidly for the future."

Portland is fortunate to have elected a mayor who has the courage to advocate such practical and fundamental American ideas.

Another hard thing to understand is why dogs will bark their heads off when company comes, and then remain as silent as the grave when a hobo or a book agent approaches.

Suffrage and other modern-day equalities may have cost woman some of her privileges, but she is still able to get "support money" when she goes into the divorce court.

None of the folks who write the helpful hints columns in the newspapers have told us what to do when the automobile runs out of gasoline ten miles from no place.

After Huey's feat many husbands begin to realize for the first time the senatorial capabilities of their wives.

In some American towns, wood money is being used. It seems that, instead of gold, they'd sooner be on a sliver basis.

The gasoline gauge is the little hickey that points to "half full" when the motor wheeses and dies two miles from a gas station.

"Pioneer Hall" Opening April 14

Committee Met Feb. 10 To Make Placement Plans For Materials

With the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum building rapidly nearing completion, the committee on Furnishings and Arrangements met here Feb. 10, to plan the placing of collections in the new building, which will be opened to the public for the first time on April 14.

Members of the committee who met in Canyon are Floyd Studer, Ben Carlton Mead, Horace M. Russell, J. A. Hill and L. F. Sheffy. Most of the time was spent in the new building.

Many people are anxious to see the interior of the museum, but officers of the Historical Society have stated that visitors will not be admitted until the materials have been arranged and the building dedicated on April 14. Every possible moment will be needed to have the building in readiness for that event.

Professor L. F. Sheffy who is busy making the program for the April event, says that Canyon will see the greatest meeting of pioneer citizens in its history. The annual meeting of the Society has always brought several hundred people, but it is expected that the number will be much greater than usual this year. The completed $50,000 building, in which the members have invested their money will be the greatest attraction to them.

Tho government seems to have overlooked a good money-making bet by not charging admission to Senator Long's talkathon.

Japan's favorite song nowadays seems to be "Chinatown, My Chinatown."

If some fellows could live their lives over again they'd probably be bigger fools than ever.

GOING INTO BUSINESS

Many men are eager to get into business for themselves in order to be independent—to be free from bosses.

This is a misconception.

The man who wants to be successful in business should regard himself as an employee. His customers really are his bosses. Because he has many bosses, he probably works harder than he would if he had but one.

Nobody makes a lasting success in business if he thinks only of himself—only of profits. He must be a useful servant. His dominant motive must be, "What can I do to please and help my customer?" By making himself indispensible to his customers he insures the longevity of his business life. Profits are a by product of usefulness. Profits without service are mere luck.

The best test to apply to a business decision is "What is my object in doing this? Will it improve my usefulness to others?"

If no other motive than profit can be found, it is better to decide against the venture. The probability is that it will fail. Gamblers usually fail because they lack integrity. They are indifferent about rise or fall of securities or commodities, provided they reap an advantage. Judgement, dictated by personal greed, is usually bad.

Let a man go into business merely because he observes that others are making a lot of money in it, and the chances are that he will fail while others are getting rich. His decisions will be dictated by greed, not by service; consequently they will be wrong oftener than right.

Rich men are usually tired men. They are tired from correcting the mistakes of greedy men. Good management consists in giving useful service to the customers.

Don't try to make money except by doing useful work. Don't lend your money to men who promise quick profits without work or worry. You'll lose.

Is it any wonder that a hen gets discouraged and gives up when she can't find things where she lays them?

The garden demonstration given by Miss Bass proved very interesting to the ladies of the Zita Home Demonstration Club meeting in regular session with Mrs. Charles Dison, Tuesday afternoon.

The demonstration brought out two very important facts, namely: by sub-irrigation one can save almost one half the water supply, which is so important in the Panhandle, and second, by careful planning one can have a year around garden supplying variety in the diet and also saving garden space.

Another point stressed was that of having a hot bed and raising your own plants. Thereby insuring yourself of strong, healthy plants at a very small outlay of cash.

WHO WILL PAY?

Who will pay the taxes after all property has been confiscated and all capital has at last found its way into the coffers of the government?

The optimistic answer is that that will never happen. Probably it won't. But we are coming closer to it than we realize. In some middle western states more than 50 per cent of the farms have been foreclosed and are being worked by lessees, not owners. In some cities it is cheaper to tear a good building down than to allow it to stand—because taxes on the structure are greater than the income it produces. In other cases it is cheaper to close a factory—because, under present conditions, returns are not great enough to meet the tax bill and the other running expenses.

When people are afraid to invest their money in producing enterprises, because of fear of increasing taxation, the country faces a crisis from unemployment and actual confiscation of capital and jobs by taxation.

The Congress now in session must deal with an unbalanced budget. The next Congress will have the same identical problem. Unless expenditures are reduced, there will come a time when there will not be enough taxpayers to meet government's high cost.

As a rule you can get a man to concede a good many things, but he'll never concede that your pain hurts worse than his.

Wearing a bright Christmas neck tie is about as hard as last winter's suit as fastening a shiny new license tage on a 1926 car.

Buffaloes Take Two More Games

In a much better basketball game than the score indicates, the lanky giants of West Texas State Teachers College used their height to beat the flashy Savages of Southeastern Teachers, Durant, Okla., 44 to 31, Tuesday night.

Some indication of the sort of struggle it was is seen in the 11 to 6 count at the half. During this initial period both teams missed lots of shots. The time was spent in going up and down the court as first one side and then the other retrieved the ball from the opponent's backboard.

The Buffaloes spurted in the second period immediately after the visitors took the lead, 14 to 13, in the first five minutes. In the next two minutes, the Buffaloes jumped into a beautiful exhibition of goal-getting to lead, 23 to 16. From here the towering teachers forged steadily ahead and when the count was 42 to 22, the Buffalo coach, Sad Sam Burton, started trotting in a flock of subs.

Comer was high point man of the game with 16, while Fortenberry followed with 12, and Colvin with 10. Stephenson was high for the Savages with nine and Lewis with seven points followed him.

The speed of the visitors at times dented the Buff defense, but when the tall lads once got underway, speed nor anything else could do any good.

The towering Buffaloes swept through the series with the Southeastern Oklahoma Teachers of Durant by winning the final game, 37 to 32.

Although the Buffs claimed the second victory, they found the going much tougher than it was in the opening game. The Savages took an early lead, tied the score after the Buffaloes had gone out in front during the first half and twice tied the count in the second period.

At the middle of the final period, however, the Buffs started a determined drive that sent them into a 10-point lead. Gradually the invaders cut this lead until they were only five points behind when the game ended.

Southeastern opened the scoring but the Buffs soon claimed a three-point margin. The score was tied at 7-7 eight minutes before the half ended.

Again the Buffs pushed ahead and held a one-point margin at the half-time, 17 to 16.

The box score:

West Texas (37)	G	F	Tp
Comer f	3	2	8
Colvin f	6	4	16
Monroe f	0	1	1
Fortenberry c	2	1	5

Half time score—West Texas 17; Southeastern 16.

PENWOMEN TO GIVE COURSE ON FEATURE WRITING

Writers from other sections of the country tell us that the Panhandle abounds in "feature" stories.

The Panhandle Penwomen, knowing that the Panhandle also abounds in potential writers who could and should profit thereby, determined to contribute their bit toward that end and secured Frank Clay Cross to come to Amarillo and conduct a short course in feature and non-fiction writing.

Mr. Cross is a regular contributor to such magazines as The Ladies Home Journal, The Forum, American Magazine and others and was an instructor at the Writers' Conference at Boulder, last summer, where his classes were extremely popular.

The Course will begin Monday, February 20th and continue for six days. Classes will be held at 7:30 p. m. and the charge will be $3.00 for the six lectures. Anyone who so desires may take the course and the Penwomen are hopeful that many of the Panhandle writers will avail themselves of this very unusual opportunity. Further information may be had by addressing Mrs. Mildred J. Cheney, 1409 Madison St, Amarillo, Texas.

Dangers Monoxide Gas and Methods to Prevent Same

Carbon monoxide gas is the result of incomplete combustion of any gas, whether it is from wood, coal, or fuel gas. In natural gas areas, it is not found in the gas itself in sufficient quantities to be a menace to health, but comes as the result of burning the gas incompletely. In manufactured gas, however, it is present usually in large amounts.

Free ventilation in houses, particularly in bedrooms, bathroom and kitchen, is stressed by the health department in minimizing danger of monoxide gas poisoning. Breathing even a small amount of gas daily is declared to be disastrous to health, to cause strange twists of the mind and finally nervous breakdown

The following rules are given as aids to minimize the danger of monoxide gas poisoning:

"When unaccountable headaches come on, especially when two or more persons are involved, suspect carbon monoxide poisoning if there are any gas stoves, gas grates, or doubtful acting coal stoves or furnaces about."

"Suspect carbon monoxide poisoning if matches will not burn perfectly in the general air of the rooms, or if there is a sense of drowsiness in rather confined quarters."

"Suspect carbon monoxide gas if, on arising from a chair or attempting active work, weakness of the knees occurs and it requires special effort to hold one's self on the job."

"Suspect monoxide gas in all 'haunted houses' and wherever persons apparently suffer from hallucinations, illusions, and delusions."

It is unfortunate that the presence of carbon monoxide gas is so difficult to detect by the householder. It has no odor, is tasteless, invisible, and non-irritating. Therefore, persons may be subject to it up to the point of death without realizing its presence. All flueless stoves used for heating are dangerous.

It is safest never to sleep in a room in which a gas heater of any type is burning, whether it sits in a fireplace opening, or is otherwise vented or not.

There is always danger of changes in the weather reversing the draft. The proper procedure in regard to bedrooms is to shut off all heat in them upon going to bed, close the bedroom door, and open a window or two. A cold bedroom is best to sleep in; keep some other room warm to dress in. This rule applies where children or even small infants are concerned. Use plenty of bedding, and not artificial heat, for bedrooms.

Never place a flueless water heater in the bath room. This is true, whether it is a gas heater, oil heater, or uses coal or wood for heat. It is an invariable rule that whenever a flame of any kind touches a cold surface, whether such surface is metal, clay tile, or other substance, it will burn incompletely, which means yielding carbon monoxide gas. It will continue to do this until the surface (for instance, the bottom of a tea kettle, water tank, stove lid, or tile candle used to throw radiant heat) becomes heated to the burning point of carbon monoxide gas.

This gas escapes into the room unnoticed by any of our five senses. Furthermore, it has 300 times the affinity for the blood that oxygen has, so that each person present acts like a 300-to-1 sponge to absorb and hold the gas. For this reason, it is far easier to find the gas in the blood of persons who are in the room, than it is to find it in the air itself. When a person dies while still in in the gas, his blood will be found rich in it. But if he is removed while still able to breathe, he will usually exhale, within two to four hours, all the gas he has absorbed. Ofttimes, he dies anyway, and this takes place 24 hours, as a rule, because of the damage the gas has done to his brain. Professor Yandell Henderson, of Yale University, who has charge of the U. S. Bureau of Mines work in connection with the gases generated in the New York rivver tunnels, states that the die is cast when the victim is first removed from the gassy room. In general, one has saturated his blood with gas up to about 80 percent, he will succumb in spite of all known efforts and apparatus used in resuscitation.

It is not until one's blood has become about 20 to 30 per cent saturated that drowsiness is noticeable and headaches come on, and soon weakness in the legs develops. At this stage, the very effort one uses in getting up to get out of the room may cause him to sink down from sheer weakness and become unconscious, or at least to be incapable of movement. It is peculiar, also, that at this stage, one is not excited, but is "at peace with the world," and cares little whether he moves or not. The deeper breathing which one does while unconscious, causes much faster absorption of the gas to take place, so that saturation after 50 per cent is quite rapid.

The familiar flueless bathroom gas heater is relatively safe only when it is of a complete combustion type, and then only when it has all tips lighted, does not keep up a flicker or series of "pops" and does not "strike back" into the air mixer (located where the gas pipe enters the stove). In the complete combustion types of stoves, the little flames are usually separate and extend out or up into the free air, without touching any heating surface. But, to be safe, all bathroom stoves should be vented to the outside, or the window kept partly open for the exchange of air.

Carbon monoxide gas is the same poison which occurs in the exhaust gas of automobiles and gas engines. Every winter a number of deaths are reported, in private garages as a rule, where the victim has started his motor without opening the doors. Every motorist and gas engine operator is warned to look out for machines or engines which are runing in close garages, basements, or other confined places. The same rule holds; without suspecting it, one suddenly becomes weak and passes into unconsciousness within a few seconds.

Finally, it should be stated that carbon monoxide may be continually generated in considerable amount in the operation of hot air furnaces, irrespective of the fuel (gas, wood, coal, etc.) and should a crevice or hole exist between the combustion chamber and heating jacket, the gas may filter through in unhealthful and even dangerous quantity, and be carried, by means of hot air system, to the rooms above.

Not infrequently it happens that the rusting of furnace smoke pipes produce pinholes, through which the gas escapes to the basement atmosphere, and causes poisoning by spreading through the rooms above.

Negro Minstrel Will Be Presented Again Thursday

The negro minstrel will be presented again Thursday night, Feb. 16th, at 7:30 in the Canyon High School auditorium. Due to cold weather, many people were prevented from attending the last performance; and it has been requested that the show be given again.

The price has been reduced to fifteen and twenty-five cents, thus arranging admission to fit the purse of everyone.

The minstrel was received with great enthusiasm by all who were present. The character of the show indicated that much time and care had been given to the preparation and the singing, wisecracking, and tapping were enjoyed by all.

Chapel

To get acquainted with the new song books was the main purpose of the chapel program last week.

On Monday the girls met in a general assembly when they sang many of the new and old songs.

On Wednesday the boys met and sang several of the songs.

On Thursday at the chapel period both boys and girls sang many of the songs.

Following the singing the football awards were given to the football boys.

The chapel period being very different from any other, was immensely enjoyed by the student body.

Supervisor's Column

The teachers of the Canyon Grade School hold one regular faculty meeting each month in addition to the general session for all teachers of the Canyon Public School. At this meeting subjects and problems peculiar to the elementary school are discussed.

Mrs. J. D. Barker and Miss Thelma Thorpe had charge of the program for the January meeting. A representative from each grade discussed briefly the aim of handwriting in their particular grade and told of some specific methods used by them to motivate the work and lay the foundation for the development of skill which is necessary for the average person. Miss Thorpe gave a very helpful demonstration of teaching correct letter formation in the first grade.

The group was then converted into a writing class by Mrs. Barker, who after discussing the chief objectives for the grades had the teachers do sample exercises to show how these objectives might be attained. Good position, muscular movement, correct letter formation, slant, spacing, and rhythm were stressed. Teachers were urged to teach children to analyze their own writing difficulties and to realize that a good standard of writing is necessary not only in the writing lesson, but that it must carry over to all subjects in which writing is done.

In a short round table discussion the teachers asked questions to clear up individual problems and expressed their appreciation for the inspirational and helpful suggestions.

At the February meeting Mr. Cleveland Jones and Mrs. Isabelle Cousins will discuss "Art in the Grades."

Speech Tournament To Be Held Friday At Amarillo High

Friday, February 18, a debate tournament will be held in Amarillo. Two debate teams will go from Canyon. Those debating are Robbie Foster, Armor Lee Greenfield, Joe Collins and Ogden Stroud. The teams will first go to a banquet being held at the Amarillo High School building and then will debate.

Other speakers from Canyon are Rosa Cash and Marvin Calliham who will declaim. The extemporaneous speakers are Robert Orton and Mary Ella Lowe.

FEBRUARY BIRTHDAYS

February has more birthdays and important dates than any other month in the year. On the twelfth day of the year we usually celebrate Lincoln's birthday; on the fourteenth, Valentine's Day; and on the twenty-second, Washington's birthday.

Many students of the high school have birthdays in this popular month. Those in the senior class celebrating birthdays this month are: Ogden Stroud, whose birthday is the 2nd; Margaret Fluegal and Louise Wester, whose birthdays are the 7th; Matalie Parker, the 11th; Maxine Middleton, the 15th; and Trannie Mae Russell, the 21st.

The juniors are: Leona Hardeman, who celebrated the 6th; Armor Lee Greenfield, the 13th; Lee Christine Cousins, the 21st; James Hill, the 22nd, and J. L. Hefner, the 26th.

In the sophomore class is Dorothy Dickinson, whose birthday is the first, and of the freshman, there is O. D. Breitling, whose birthday is the third.

There is danger in using that slogan, "Buy American," these days. Some foreign country with a little money left might misinterpret it for "Buy America" ado go ahead and do it.

A new electrical device, when thrust into a fruit, causes the latter to give off a distinguishing sound. Probably a banana gives forth a peel, and a raspberry sounds like a bird.

Ex-Student Notes

Hudson Prichard, a graduate of C. H. S. in 1911 is now manager of the local branch of the Bell Telephone Co.

Ralph Harter, an ex-student of Canyon High School is now employed in the post office of this city.

Mrs. Berl Edwards Mayfield, a graduate of 1917 is now county clerk and has served the two preceding terms in this office.

Ishmael Hill, a graduate of 1927, is now teaching at Fairview, near Claude.

Terrill Christian, a former grid star of C. H. S., has recovered from an operation and has been taken to his home near Claude from Northwest Hospital.

Otis Higdon, a graduate of 1927, is now operating the Eagle Cafe.

Ruth Crawford, a graduate of 1927, is now teaching at Bivins Station, Texas.

Due to prevailing weather conditions last Friday, the McLean High School informed Mr. Terry that the debate tournament would have to be called off. This enabled the local debate teams to better prepare themselves for the Amarillo tournament to be held next Friday and Saturday.

A holiday was given Tuesday afternoon as it was impossible to get the building warm. Several from out of town had more vacation as the trucks didn't run until Thursday.

A good policy would be to pay on your activity ticket each week.

No news may be good news at times, but not when the expected check fails to arrive.

Football Awards Were Presented to Twenty Gridders

As a part of the assembly propram last Thursday, Mr. Carruth awarded gold footballs to twenty gridders of the past season as a result of their defeating the Happy Jacks for the first time in three years on the gridiron.

The footballs were presented without comment to the following boys:

Leonard Brasuel, captain; George Brasuel, Alton Brasuel, T. V. Slack, Truett O'Donald, Joe Collins, Robert Black, Ogden Stroud, Francis Elliston, Wade Johnson, Johnnie Wilson, F. A. Thomas, Tyson Cox, Sewell Cox, Curtis Ellison, Owen Miller, Austin Cone, Wesley Williams, Cris Wooten, J. M. Black.

Intramural Ball Creates Interest Among Classes

Much interest is being taken in the intramural basketball by both coaches and team members. The rivalry for places on class teams is very keen. All the games promise to be very close, as all the teams are working very hard. The preliminary games will start Wednesday, and will continue all week. The final game will be played January 22.

The winning team will play the faculty and the Eagle squad.

Who's Who

Mrs. Strain, principal of the Canyon Grade School, received her first seven years of education in a small country school, but she did her preparatory work and two years of college work in the Bank Stephen's Institute at Forsythe, Georgia. In 1925 she received her Bachelor of Arts degree in elementary education at W. T. S. T. C. She has also done one quarter of graduate work at the University of Chicago.

When she was in the third grade Mrs. Strain decided that her life work would be teaching in the primary grades. She has never taught older people except for the year that she taught in a small country school.

Cooking is Mrs. Strain's hobby and she especially likes to cook for a large number of people

She is a member of the Lloyd Green Allen Scholarship Society and the Pi Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society of Amarillo, an honor society for women teachers.

Mrs. Strain began teaching the first grade in 1925 and has been principal of the Canyon Grade School for four years.

SAINT VALENTINE'S DAY

Each year on the 14th of February, we celebrate Valentine Day. On this day love tokens, cards of greeting, and such are exchanged by friends. This year quite a few valentines have been seen passing among the students.

Valentine Day is named after Saint Valentine, a Roman Catholic bishop, martyred in Rome in A. D. 270 on February 14. For many years the celebrations on this day by both Catholics and Protestants have not been serious. Many explanations have been given for this custom and the social activities usually connected with the day.

Some say that it was the custom of St. Valentine to go from house to house, leaving food on the doorsteps of the poor, and that the custom has developed from that.

Others say that about this time each year the Romans had a festival, in which the boys and girls, the men and women chose partners by lots. This day was so close to the St. Valentine's feast that they were made the same celebration.

Lots of odd gifts changed hands this year. Friend of ours got a pair of left-handed gloves.

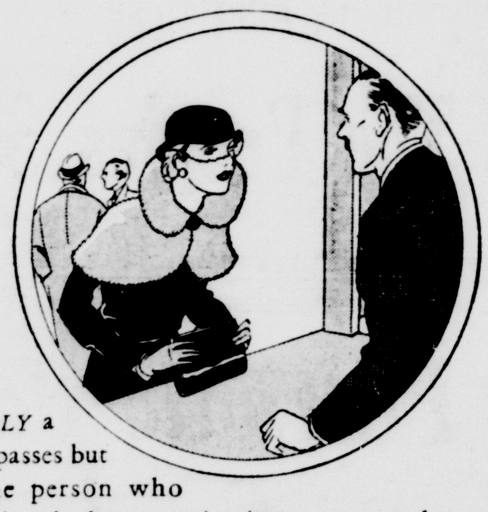
"I want my telephone put back, please"



HARDLY a day passes but that some person who gave up his telephone service in recent months orders it restored. In many cases, people feel that it is false economy to be without a telephone . . . that the small cost of the service is repaid many times each month in convenience, in time and actually in money saved.

Some miss the close and personal contact with friends that telephone service makes possible. Others mention the loss of many pleasant, impromptu social "get-togethers" when their friends are unable to reach them by telephone.

It is all true . . . what these customer friends of ours say. Telephone service costs so little and its value is so great that in most instances it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.

If you are missing your telephone . . . just get in touch with our business office. We'll send a man out with a telephone in a hurry.

Sports Fans Brush Away a Tear at the Passing of Two Institutions: the Poughkeepsie Regatta and Harold "Red" Grange

BY PHILIP MARTIN

FOLLOWERS of eight-oar crew racing have wailed long and loud ever since directors of the Poughkeepsie Regatta, America's foremost racing classsic, was discontinued this year. And well they might, for with the temporary passing of this institution goes a lot of sports color that will be sadly missed before the year's over.

But already they're talking of a substitute for the old 'Keepsie race, to be run this year. And California, which boasts the world's champion crew in the University of California squad, is going to grab the glory.

There has been a lot of talk to the effect that civic interests of Long Beach and Los Angeles are taking up a collection to stage an intercollegiate regatta on the Marine course at Long Beach, where California won the Olympic racing event by beating the Italian crew one-fifth of a second.

If this plan of the two cities goes through, the race will be run in June. Those crews of the east which were not forced to drop out of the Poughkeepsie event because football failed to bring enough money into the coffers to support a rowing squad this season, will be invited to compete.

• • •

ALONG with the passing of the Poughkeepsie regatta, another institution fades away.

Red Grange has hung up his cleated shoes and famous old No. 77 jersey; no more will he run rampant across frozen turf. The "Galloping Ghost" has announced his retirement, and this time he means it.

A little fat now, despite his strenuous work on professional gridirons, and nearing 30, the former University of Illinois great leaves behind him one of the most vivid football pictures ever blazed.

No more those long strides and shifty hips, sudden swerves and dashes down the field for spectacular runs . . . Michigan was going to stop him, and he scored four touchdowns in 12 minutes . . . Penn was going to stop him, but failed miserably . . . Ohio State was going to stop him, but the Buckeyes only succeeded in holding him to a trifling seven yards per try.

Grange hasn't announced his plans for the future, but whatever they are, good luck, Red.

• • •

NOW that Gorilla Jones, dusky Akron dynamiter, has won back the National Boxing Commission's middleweight title, and Ben Jeby, newest pride of New York's Ghetto, has copped the New York Boxing Commission's title, it's high time that the question of who really is the middleweight champion should be decided once and for all.

Jeby, right after he won the title, announced his color preference. It was easily seen after his statement that he didn't prefer dark hues. His announcement was made, presumably, to avoid tangling with Sammy Slaughter, Fort Wayne, Ind., negro who was gunning for a title bout.

But it turned out that Slaughter met Jones for the N. B. A. title, and now Jeby is faced with a battle with the Akron boy.

Statement or no statement, it is believed that Jeby wouldn't be adverse to a fight with Jones if enough money can be borrowed, stolen or mined to throw into the ring.

If, and when the two boys meet, the bout will be a natural!

In Allotment Bill, Government May Try Daring Experiment in Farm Relief

ONE of the most daring economic experiments ever seriously attempted in this country will be put into operation if the farm allotment bill, which reflects the farm relief views of President-elect Roosevelt, is passed by Congress.

And although opinion seems divided on the merits of the bill, it appears likely that the bill will become legislation — if not in the present session of Congress, then in the next.

Sponsored by Rep. Marvin Jones of Texas and the Committee of Agriculture of which he is chairman, the bill is a temporary emergency measure, intended to tide the farmer over until economic conditions improve and until permanent relief legislation can be enacted.

According to Rep. Jones, agricultural America is approaching a crisis. Several million farmers are unemployed; nearly 10 per cent of the farms in this country have changed hands through foreclosures and other legal procedure; farm values are decreasing rapidly, while farmers' indebtedness has almost trebled in the last 20 years —all because of a shortage of income brought about by reduced purchasing power.

While the average price of farm products has decreased 46 per cent since the World War, the price of industrial articles bought by the farmer has increased as much as 58 per cent. Thus, the farmer's dollar has less than half its pre-war buying power. To restore normal conditions, Jones, points out, the price of farm products must be brought to a more normal relationship with the prices of other commodities. This is where the farm allotment bill comes in.

Through this measure, the government in effect gives to each farmer complying with its terms a bounty which would make up to him the difference between the price he would get for his crop now and a "fair parity price" determined by the Secretary of Agriculture. This parity figure would bring his present crop price into the same relation to other current commodity prices as farm commodity prices bore to industrial prices back in the period 1909-14. The bounty is in the form of an "allotment certificate." Here is the way the new arrangement would work:

Rep. Marvin Jones of Texas, chairman of the Committee on Agriculture which sponsors the farm allotment bill.

IN order to benefit from the new plan, a farmer must show proof of a 20 per cent reduction in his acreage—or production—of a given commodity. The government specifies this to eliminate the huge surpluses of grain that are depressing farm prices. Furthermore, the certificate allowances will cover only that part of the production going into domestic consumption.

The "parity price" of wheat for the new harvest season will run, let us say, about 93 cents a bushel. Taking this price, suppose a farmer markets 2000 bushels of wheat, at a prevailing market price of 35 cents a bushel. He sells his wheat at that price. He is given a government certificate for the difference between 35 cents and 93 cents, or 58 cents a bushel, which applies on 1400 bushels, 70 per cent of the wheat sold—that portion intended for domestic consumption. Thus, he would receive $812 in addition to the price paid by the buyer for his 2000 bushels. The certificate would be redeemed by the government for cash, half in 30 days and half in six months.

At present applying only to wheat, hogs, cotton, peanuts, tobacco, rice and butterfat, the bill may take in other commodities before it is finally passed.

In effect, the bill will be giving the farmers a "bonus" of many millions of dollars. Where is this money coming from? Well, the government levies a processing fee equal to the difference between the prevailing farm price and the pre-war ratio price, on the processers of farm commodities—the millers, meat packers, etc. But at least a portion of this tax will probably be passed on to the consumer.

The merit of this bill remains to be proven. Some authorities praise it, believing that increased purchasing power of the farmers would hasten the return of prosperity. Others like its acreage reduction feature which, they predict, will eventually bring the production and consumption of farm commodities back on a normal basis. On the other hand, however, there are many who condemn the bill as a subsidy that helps one class of citizens at the expense of another.

Hall County To Send Delegation

75 Teachers To Visit In Demonstration School Early In March

Seventy-five teachers employed in the schools of Hall County, expect to visit the West Texas State Teachers College the first Saturday in March.

Women of Memphis and vicinity are furnishing cars to bring the party which will be in charge of Mrs. Roy Guthrie, county superintendent. The teachers of Hall County regularly spend one Saturday in each month in professional improvement.

Will Observe Classes

Arrangements have been made with Professor F. E. Savage, superintendent of the Canyon College Demonstration school to have demonstration lessons taught in reading, geography, music, games and other subjects which will give the visitors both inspiration and information to take back to their own school rooms.

A visit to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, under the direction of Professor L. F. Sheffy, will be another feature of the day's educational excursion.

During the year the Training School serves many groups of visiting teachers, since it is in session on Saturday. Materials are constantly sent out to teachers in the field also.

Review Modern Methods

River Road school faculty visited the Training School recently and last year the largest delegation consisted of about 50 teachers from Pampa.

In commenting upon these activities Mr. Savage said, "We ought to be assisting the teacher in the field and these Saturday visits to our demonstration school are among the best helps we can offer, for here the visitors see expert teaching, modern methods, and new and suitable materials."

We have also reached the time where it is almost as hard to borrow money as it is to pay it back.

Play Will be Given February 25th By the Senior Class

"The Elopement of Ellen," a dramatic production as intriguing and romantic as its title, will be presented by the senior class of W. T. High School on the evening of Friday, February 24, in the auditorium of the Education Building. The play is a farce comedy in three acts written by Marie J. Warren. It is under the direction of Miss Eulalie Burrus, W. T. senior and speech major.

The engaging plot of the play is based on the complications that can arise when a group of young New Yorkers come together at a week-end party. A devoted husband, an ambitious college student, a love sick girl, and a boy caught between the fires of two engagements all conspire to make this production one of the best dramatic performances by amateurs that has appeared in Canyon in some time.

The part of Richard Ford, the devoted young husband, is played by Bill Moore. His wife, Molly, is played by Louise Shirley. The part of Robert Shepard, Molly's brother is taken by Dan Aynesworth. Audell Kimmins takes the part of Max Ten Eych, a chum of Robert's. The part of Dorothy March, a girl engaged to Max, is played by Mattie Pearl Whittenberg. The part of June Haverhill, a Wellesley student doing research work, is portrayed by Linnette Cain. The part of John Hume, the humorous Rector of St. Agnes, is played by J. C. Baker.

The admission to "The Elopement of Ellen" will be 25 cents. The curtain will go up promptly at 8:00 o'clock.
